RUSSIA TO PROCLAIM IMMEDIATE ARMISTICE, STOP FIGHT

QUEEN IS LOW; SLIGHT RALLY MARKS TODAY

Liliuokalani Recovers Somewhat From Extreme Sinking of Last Night; Relatives and Intimate Friends at Bedside

QUEEN LILIUOKALANI, 79 years of age and in feeble health for many months past, is so seriously ill today at her home, Washington Place, that no positive hope is held out for her recovery, and fears are expressed that she will not survive many hours.

At almost any moment the torch of life, still flickering in a body kept up by the strong vitality which has marked the queen from her girlhood, may flicker out.

At 3:15 o'clock this afternoon Her Majesty was semi-conscious and there was no material change in her condition. Secretary Lauke said the prospects were she would survive the afternoon and possibly the night.

With relatives and intimate friends at her bedside or nearby, the queen's tide of life ebbs and flows. Today's serious condition follows a sudden sinking spell late yesterday. Last evening her condition became so grave that it was thought she was dying, and Prince Kuhio was summoned with Princess Kaliananale. At 11 o'clock she was unconscious and remained so for a large part of the night, but this morning rallied somewhat and, though very weak, was pronounced by her physician, Dr. W. C. Hobdy, to be much better than during the night.

At 10:30 this morning she was able momentarily to recognize relatives around her, but was still in an exhausted state.

Prince and Princess Kaliananale, Colonel and Mrs. C. P. Lauke, Mrs. A. P. Taylor and one or two relatives and friends who have always been close to the queen, are either at the bedside or on the grounds of Washington Place, ready to be called at a moment's notice. No one else is allowed to see her.

News that the queen was dangerously low was known around the city last night, and this morning calls of sympathy were made at the queen's residence.

Governor Pinkham was among the first to call, and others who arrived early in the morning were Senator Miles Poindexter of Washington, Representative Samuel J. Nicholls of South Carolina, and Angus E. Ely, in charge of the congressional party.

It was the wish, however, of the queen's friends that her illness be not allowed to change the elaborate plans already made for the entertainment of the congressional party and for their itinerary around Oahu and to the other islands.

Consequently, it was stated just

'ROTTEN ROADS' SOLONS' VIEW AFTER RIDING

That the Island of Oahu stands in need of much road improvement is the opinion of the visiting congressmen who, accompanied by Raymond C. Brown of the chamber of commerce, Lester Petrie of the board of supervisors, and Gerrit P. Wilder, made a trip to Makapuu lighthouse over disgracefully bad roads.

"Rotten roads," one of them was heard to say, and the consensus of opinion, as expressed by Senators Ashurst of Arizona and Myers of Montana, was that Hawaii must have better roads.

In spite of the mud and the general condition of the roads, all the members of the party seemed to enjoy the outing. They spent about 15 minutes at the lighthouse and then hurriedly betook themselves to the College of Hawaii for luncheon.

Governor Pinkham's reception tonight to the visiting congressmen will be held in the old throne room of the Capitol building and will begin at 8:45 o'clock. The receiving line is announced as follows:

Stabbing Victim to Wed Today on Cot in Hospital

Anna Villacuna to Become Bride of Filipino Whose Association With Her Inspired Her "Master" to Do Murder

CIPRIANO CONAHAP after all will make use of the marriage license he had in his pocket yesterday afternoon while on his way to the Majestic hotel to see Anna Villacuna, who had consented to become his wife, but who was stabbed by Melcardo just before he arrived there. This afternoon Cipriano and the woman are to be married in the emergency hospital.

Cipriano wanted to marry Anna in the Philippines, but she declined. Later, he renewed his offer in Hawaii, but was again spurned. This morning he visited the emergency hospital and told officials there that he would still marry the woman if she would have him. The woman, lying on a hospital cot with her year-old baby, was given the message of her former suitor. She consented.

On a bed in the emergency hospital, badly wounded as a result of a stabbing which occurred yesterday afternoon at the Majestic hotel, in which one man was killed, lies Anna Villacuna.

PRETTY JAPANESE MURDERED

Husband Awakened By Baby's Cries Finds Wife Outside Home With Throat Slashed; Six Held By Police

WITH her throat slashed in two places and her head bashed in blood, Mrs. Kiyu Haruta, age 23, a beautiful Japanese, was found dead last night shortly after 9 o'clock by her husband a few hundred feet from their home at Kalapapa Camp, Lale. Six Japanese men, employees of the murdered woman's husband, who live but a short distance from the scene of the crime, have been taken in custody for investigation.

The cry of their 4-year-old baby awakened Haruta last night at 9 o'clock. He found his wife missing from her bed. His search led him to an out-house across the field, where he found her lying in a pool of blood with her throat slashed, apparently by a sharp penknife. He awakened the proprietors of the Shimidzu store on the Belt road and telephoned for the police.

A search of the scene of the crime failed to reveal the weapon with which the murder had been committed. Evidence that the woman had been outraged was plentiful, but no clues that the police could find were left by her assailant.

Six Japanese employees who reside in a shack not far distant from the out-house were arrested and are being held for investigation. They were all asleep at the time of the arrest and had heard no cries of distress, they said, during the night.

The murdered woman was to have become a mother shortly. She came here from Japan five years ago as a picture bride and was regarded as one of the prettiest Japanese women on the island. Her husband is a sugar planter in a small way and the six men arrested have all worked for him for some time.

25TH INFANTRY ON GUARD AT WAIPAHU

Soldiers of the 25th Infantry are on guard in the vicinity of Waipahu owing to the prevalence of typhoid suspects in that district. Waipahu has furnished quite a number of suspected cases recently. Dr. J. S. B. Pratt, president of the board of health, was unable to say today how many cases there are. He did not believe there were as many as a dozen from the district, he said, but would venture no statement as to the number. Every person that develops any fever is being taken to the hospital, he said.

CONGRESSMEN LUNCHEON GUESTS AT COLLEGE

Members of the congressional party returned from their trip to Makapuu lighthouse this afternoon at 1 o'clock. After spending an hour viewing the grounds and studying the conditions at the College of Hawaii, the young ladies of the school served lunch on the grounds. Governor Pinkham, Dr. A. L. Dean and Wallace R. Farrington, regent of the college, were present to welcome the visiting delegation. George Hess and other members of the party studied the plant life at the school. All were impressed with the institution and predicted a bright future for Hawaii's educational facilities.

CHILD SUGGESTS FISH PROBLEM SOLUTION

J. F. Child, federal food administrator, this afternoon, at the fish probe meeting, suggested two ways in which the price of fish might be reduced. One was to reduce the possibility of a bait monopoly, and the second to reduce the overhead expenses of the fishing companies. If all fishing companies effected a combination, and if all fish were handled through an organization of this kind, the same settlement could be made with stockholders on the combined capitalization as is now being made, he said.

SHAFTER TO STAGE BATTLE FOR SOLONS

Plans for a big demonstration arranged for the visiting congressional party at Fort Shafter on the night of November 22, Thursday, were announced this afternoon from army headquarters. The demonstration will take the form of a night "attack" on the enemy's lines and will simulate the actual conditions as near as possible. Troops of the 2nd Infantry under Lieut. Col. Frank C. Bolles, commander, and the Engineer troops at Fort Shafter will participate. Night flares, machine guns, rifles, trench mortars and wire entanglements will all be used. The engineer troops will demonstrate an advance to position under fire and the "digging in" methods of modern soldiering.

PROHIBITION IN OHIO DOUBTFUL

(Associated Press by U. S. Naval Wireless.) CINCINNATI, Nov. 9.—Prohibition hangs in the balance in Ohio according to the last reports received last night. Corrections in the returns, discovery of errors and retotaling swung the pendulum the other way and at midnight the "Wets" led by 3643 votes, but it was conceded that the result was in doubt.

During the day the returns indicated that prohibition had won by a majority of perhaps 2500, but the corrections and revisions brought about the switch. An official recount will certainly be called for.

The soldier vote will also have to be tabulated after it has been received for Ohio has a provision for the counting of the votes of its citizens who are in the army.
